on Street-Blocking
by Missouri Pacific

Editor The Star: I have recently been appointed superintendent of the Missouri Pacific's Arkansas Division, and the city of Hope is on its Little Rock Subdivision.

One of the first things I learned of upon arriving in Little Rock was the problem of our occasionally blocking crossings in Hope. I looked into the matter and found the problem is caused when our trains are making long pickups or setouts of cars there. Many of these cars are filled with the products of Hope industry bound for other parts of the nation or with other items and supplies destined for the homes and businesses of Hope.

We must make these pickups and setouts, and some blocking will occur. But our crews are well aware of the problems and we are working with them to try to prevent long crossing delays.

I wish I could tell you our trains won't block your crossings any more, but I can't. However, I can say we'll be doing everything in our power to reduce the number of such incidents as low as possible.

Sincerely,
B. E. KERLEE

Three Missouri Pacific officials called on your editor recently and asked him what his solution would be for the problem of street crossings blocked by railroad switching operations. I suggested they put their case in a letter to The Star.

Superintendent Kerlee's letter is the result of that conference—but obviously it solves nothing.

There is a solution, and I presented it to the three men at the time they called on me—but it would be rough on both the railroad and the city from a cost standpoint.

Considering the location of mainline switching facilities and the press of street traffic trying to get from one side of Hope to the other there is only one solution. And that is, to increase the number of grade separations.

At present there is but one, the Harvey St. underpass. And the only reason we got it was that during World War II Missouri Pacific needed to double-track its switching yard, and the City of Hope demanded the Harvey St. underpass as a condition to going along with the railroad's plan.

Furthermore, while the underpass structure was built of wood, with a dangerous central support dividing the two traffic lanes, the railroad stipulated this would be redone in steel and the center pylon removed just as soon as the wartime shortage of steel ended. Well, World War II ended 27 years ago and the old wooden structure is still with us.

We'll have a second grade separation—an overpass—when the State Highway Department merges State 4 and 20 and brings them up the eastern side of Hope as an access road for Interstate 30. But this second structure won't be much help to downtown traffic trying to fight its way around blocked railroad crossings.

Hope is on a boom. If conditions are bad now they are going to be worse in the immediate future. Hope needs a second downtown grade separation, either underpass or overpass. It would be costly, but not as costly as in some future day when the job would have to be

Israel seething at release of 3 terrorists

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel denounced West Germany's release of three Olympic massacre terrorists and sent planes today to attack Arab guerrilla bases and an army base inside Syria.

Jets flew into Syria twice during the day. In the first attack they hit at guerrilla bases near Damascus, the capital. The Syrians responded to this with an artillery barrage on Israeli military positions. A short time later, the Israeli jets took off for a strike at a Syrian armored post and military warehouses near the Syrian Lebanese border.

Israeli spokesmen said the attacks in four guerrilla bases were not in direct retaliation for the Arab guerrilla hijacking of a West German jetliner Sunday that won the release from Germany of the Black September terrorists awaiting trial for the Munich massacre on Sept.

Perhaps the cost could be divided between the railroad and the city and federal governments.

Today's problem is very real. The blocked-crossings if not remedied could well force the City of Hope to construct a second fire station on the north side to protect householders from an insurance rate surcharge.

And the city is never going to expand on the north side unless the railroad situation is remedied. The exception, of course, is the development now going on at the intersection of Interstate 30 and State 20—but the rest of the north side stands to lose unless additional grade separations are built.

The Palestinian hijackers claimed that they had mined the Lufthansa 727 jet and threatened to blow it up along with themselves and the 20 other persons on board.

"Our lives mean nothing to us," they had told the Germans.

The West German government said it acted out of consideration for the lives of the passengers and crew of the plane.

Israel's Foreign Minister Abba Eban, however, summoned the West German ambassador in Jerusalem and demanded an explanation from Bonn.

He contended the three terrorists are likely to strike again at Israelis.

"Their release is a blow to the memory and honor of our Munich martyrs," he declared.

The Israeli government expressed "astonishment and disappointment" today at West Germany's release of the three Munich Olympic terrorists to Arab guerrillas who threatened to blow up a German airliner with 20 other persons aboard. Foreign Minister Abba Eban asked for an explanation from Bonn.

Eban told the German ambassador, Jesco von Puttkamer, Bonn's "surrender" to the Arab guerrillas "constitutes a weakening of the international stand against terror."

Israeli newspapers called Bonn's compliance with the hijackers' demands shameful, dangerous and disgraceful. But a West German spokesman said Chancellor Willy Brandt's government felt the Israeli reproaches were "absolutely unjustified."

Resigns as
chairman

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., confirmed today that he would resign as chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee.

Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., said Saturday that McClellan planned to resign and that he would be replaced by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

McClellan revealed his plans today at a breakfast in El Dorado. He said that he would resign because his duties as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee consumed much of his time.

McClellan said in an interview that he did not have time for both positions. McClellan inherited the job as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee with the recent death of Louisiana Sen. Allen Ellender.

Signing of peace pact
is delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says the United States won't be ready to sign a Vietnam peace agreement by Tuesday, but doesn't think this will prevent an agreement "in due course."

"There is no question about the principal parts of the agree-

is issued

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong said today it is determined to continue the war unless the United States either forces President Nguyen Van Thieu to accept the U.S. North Vietnamese peace agreement or removes him from power.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, head of the Viet Cong peace talk delegation, told a news conference the American efforts to renegotiate parts of the agreement concluded between Henry A. Kissinger, presidential adviser, and the North Vietnamese negotiator, Le Duc Tho, were proof of the Nixon administration's "bad faith."

She refused to tell questioners what action the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese would take if the agreement was not signed by Tuesday, the original deadline.

ment," Agnew said Sunday. However, he added there "are just a few matters to be made 'crystal clear' between the parties before it can be made final."

South Vietnam's foreign minister, Tran Van Lam, said today his government won't sign until North Vietnam withdraws its troops from the South and until there is agreement on the exact role of a proposed National Council of Reconciliation and Concord which is supposed to maintain a cease-fire and supervise elections.

A tentative peace agreement to end the long war was worked out in Paris in negotiations between presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese envoys. North Vietnam is demanding that it be signed in Paris on Tuesday, claiming the United States earlier agreed on that date.

The proposed agreement does not provide for withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South, although U.S. forces would be withdrawn within 60 days after the agreement is signed. War prisoners in In-

Hope youth killed

Tommy McCoy, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loyce McCoy of Hope was killed Saturday morning in a hunting accident near Bodcaw (Nevada County).

Nevada County Coroner Henry Shackelford said McCoy was hunting with three other youths when a 12-gauge shotgun held by one of his companions discharged accidentally. The blast struck McCoy under the right arm, Shackelford said.

McCoy was a student at Hope High School. Other survivors include a brother, Dale McCoy of Hope; a sister, Mrs. Sherman Dean of Hope, and grandmothers, Mrs. Maudie Leaks of Hope and Mrs. Cora Peterson of Lewisville.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Monday at Smith Funeral Chapel at Stampas. Burial will be at Sardis Cemetery.

Ronnie: Settlement of war too late

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — For Ronnie D. Beets, any peace settlement in Vietnam is too late.

For him, the war ended in a fierce battle near Chu Lai in the summer of 1967. But he continued to fight for his life in hospitals in Japan, San Antonio and Long Beach.

Months later, it seemed he had won his battle to survival and the Army discharged him. He was a paraplegic, but alive and filled with vitality and a desire for a college degree and a family.

But war wounds don't always end easily, and for Ronnie Beets' luck ran out Thursday in a hospital in Odessa, Tex. He died of the lingering after-effects of the Viet Cong grenade that tore through his stomach and shattered his spine.

The Beets family gathered over the weekend at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Beets of Oklahoma City. They include his widow, the former Marilyn Farley of Oklahoma City and his 6-year-old son Ronald and 4-year-old daughter Rebecca and a brother, Bill.

Ronnie Beets was a paratrooper and machinegunner in the 101st Airborne Division in Vietnam. His brother recalls Ronnie's story of what happened the day he was wounded. "They were dug in all around ... I saw six or seven of them sneaking up near our fox hole to set up a machinegun nest, so I started throwing grenades at them. One of them threw a grenade our way," Bill Beets says his brother told him.

Ronnie was hit and his machinegun was knocked out.

Then, he was hit by rifle fire. But he put his gun back in action and fired 2,000 rounds.

A month later, Ronnie came home, but to a hospital in San Antonio. Three months after that, he was moved to a hospital in San Diego. Eight months later, he was well enough to be discharged.

A few days ago, Ronnie's war wound caused an intestinal blockage that sent him back to the hospital, where he died before hearing the news that a cease-fire may be imminent in Viet Nam.

Supreme Court rulings

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Supreme Court ruled invalid today an order padlocking a Texarkana theater for showing movies the state alleged fostered nudism.

The order had been issued on Nov. 12, 1971, by Circuit Court Judge John W. Goodman of Texarkana on a petition filed Oct. 14, 1971, by Pros. Atty. W. H. Arnold against the Capri Theatre, the Mini-Art Operating Co., and H. E. Enlow, owner and lessor of the theater.

The petition was filed after the theater showed a movie that depicted a beauty contest at a nudist camp.

changed its theory to contend that the showing of the film constituted the aiding and abetting of nudism.

CONVICTION UPHELD

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Supreme Court left intact today an involuntary manslaughter conviction that resulted from a first-degree murder trial in which the state was not permitted to introduce a confession.

The high court, in a unanimous opinion written by Associate Justice Conley Byrd, said that Lower Hendricks Jr., sitting as a special Circuit Court judge at Little Rock, erred by refusing to let the state introduce the confession. The court said, however, that it could do nothing about the result of the trial because of the state constitutional provision against placing a defendant in double jeopardy, "but for the orderly administration of justice we do declare that error was committed."

30 die in train wreck

CHICAGO (AP) — Thirty persons were killed today in a rear-end crash of two commuter trains on Chicago's South Side during the morning rush hour.

Hospitals reported treating more than 200 persons for injuries. The crash occurred while the two Illinois Central Gulf Railroad trains were near a platform station on the city's South Side, less than 10 minutes from the main downtown terminal. A passenger on the train that initiated the collision said riders were given about 20 seconds' warning.

Nixon vetoes affect two state projects

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — President Nixon's veto of nine bills has, at least for the present, pushed out of the picture fun for the controversial Cache River mitigation lands in East Arkansas and preliminary work on a bridge to span Norfolk Reservoir at Mountain Home.

One vetoed bill would have empowered the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to acquire 70,000 acres in the Cache River Basin in East Arkansas.

Construction of the bridge across Lake Norfolk would replace a ferry boat operation the state Highway Department has conducted across the lake for a number of years.

The veto will also put the Ozarks Regional Commission out of business unless new legislation is enacted before July 1 of next year.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he understood that a number of airport development grants in Arkansas were contingent upon final action on the vetoed Airport Development Bill.

"It is tragic that the President has such little feel for the needs of our people that he would allocate so much for military weapons and other projects, but is willing to cut back drastically on projects so vital to the people of Arkansas, such as highways, bridges, schools, hospitals and community development," Fulbright said.

The President said the vetoed measures were objectionable because they contained some ill-defined and potentially costly programs. He does, however, say the measures contained some desirable features which he said he will propose in new legislation next year. He did not mention specifics in either category.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said that the veto of the bills will delay at least until early next year provisions for the mitigation lands and preliminary work on the bridge.

The appropriations bill affecting the projects has not been vetoed McClellan said. He said he expected no trouble in getting approval for two projects during the next session of Congress.

Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., said that the veto is a "Tragic end four years of hard work" on the Cache River project.

"I've put my heart and soul into the Cache River project for four years," Alexander said, "and it has been one of my principal priorities. It's very disappointing. I wouldn't want to comment further on the veto until I have had a chance to evaluate the President's rationale in vetoing the bill."

Alexander said he hopes the bill can be passed in the next session of Congress.

Also included in flood control legislation was a measure empowering the government to alter municipal water supply facilities at Conway by building water supply impoundment facilities outside the city, plus interconnecting pipeline and other appurtenant work.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., said he could not understand the President's veto. "It was not an excessive bill," Mills said.

He said the Conway project was made less than perfect by the Arkansas River project, and this he attributed to the federal government.

"It was my understanding that every item in it had been approved by the Department of Defense," he said.

Nixon holds 26-point lead in final polls

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon held a 26-point lead over Democrat George McGovern going into the last two weeks of the presidential campaign, according to the fourth and final Yankelovich poll.

The survey, commissioned by the New York Times and Time magazine, gave Nixon 56 per cent to 30 per cent for McGovern and 14 per cent undecided. This was a 4 point gain for McGovern over the previous poll.

Based on telephone interviews with 3,010 registered voters, the survey was conducted from Oct. 15 to 24. It ended just before the administration announced that peace was at hand in Vietnam.

The four Yankelovich surveys were taken in the 16 largest states, which together have 332 electoral votes — well over the 270 that are necessary to carry the presidency.

Survey results gave Nixon a lead of 22 points or better in 10 states — Texas, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Georgia, Virginia and Florida.

The President held a lead of between 12 and 22 points in New York, California, Michigan, New Jersey and Wisconsin, the poll said. In only one of the 16 states, Massachusetts, did McGovern appear ahead.

The survey also showed apparent growing apathy toward the election. In the first poll last July, 48 per cent said they were "very interested" in the campaign, but the figure fell to 39 per cent in the latest poll. The Gallup Poll, meanwhile, reported that it found "the Democratic party has certain strengths which may not be apparent in the latest figures on candidate preferences."

In its mid-October survey, reported last week, the Gallup Poll found Nixon ahead by a 23-point margin, 50 per cent to 38 per cent for McGovern.

But when voters were asked which political party they thought best able to deal with the nation's top problems, the GOP was ahead only 56 to 45 per cent, Gallup said Sunday.

Democrats emerged ahead of the Republicans, 51 to 48, on questions designed to test enthusiasm and by one percentage point in campaign activity, the survey found.

Peace pact --

dochina would be released in the same 60-day period.

Kissinger has said one additional negotiating session of three or four days will be required to work out a few details before the agreement can be signed.

A statement today by Hanoi's official newspaper said the United States has only "two choices," to sign the agreement worked out in Paris, or face intensified war. Viet Cong forces have mounted widespread new attacks throughout the South in recent days.

Other Communist countries, including Russia, joined in Hanoi's demand for a quick signing. Pravda said there is no justification for a delay in signing.

Pope Paul VI expressed hope Sunday that the agreement would bring true peace, adding: "We are now waiting for the great news of the truce of weapons and afterward that of a fraternal peace."

Agnew said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program that he didn't think "anything will be signed Tuesday." He also said there is no substantial disagreement, and "I don't think the chance of it (the agreement) becoming unstuck is very great."

He said he does not think President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam will block the agreement.

However, there seemed to be major disagreement over the question of North Vietnamese troops remaining in the South.

The South Vietnamese foreign minister, Lam, said today that "the North Vietnamese troops have to withdraw back to North Vietnam."

But pressed on this point Sunday, Agnew said the United States had withdrawn its earlier insistence on a North Vietnamese withdrawal because Hanoi had dropped its demand for "an imposed coalition government and the dismantling of the Thieu government entirely."

The agreement now provides, he said, that "the country remains effectively under the control of its elected officials, the Thieu people"

Flammability of Children's Sleepwear

NEW YORK (ED)—Children plus safety hazards equal disaster. Because toddlers cannot read or comprehend warnings, they don't realize when they are faced with a possibly dangerous situation. Endlessly inquisitive and fascinated by everything around them, they are quick to experiment with matches and cigarette lighters—and even insert metal objects into open electrical outlets.

Because children are often unable to help themselves, the government has passed a standard for flammability of children's sleepwear in sizes 0 to 6X. The need for such a standard was based on the investigation and analysis of deaths and injuries due to fires resulting from flammable sleepwear apparel, and on the results of laboratory research involving garments and fabrics for children's sleepwear.

Development of new fibers and fabrics treatments by the textile industry will increase the fire resistance of fabrics. However, consumers should not presume that a fabric will never ignite because it passes a flammability test. All textiles will burn (some more readily than others) if exposed to intense heat or flames from matches or lighters, burning candles or cigarettes, lighted ranges or heaters, open fires or burning flammable liquids.

It's up to the manufacturers to develop flame-resistant fibers and fabrics. But, it's up to you to keep your children safe from the hazards of fire in your home.

'Creative listening' is music club topic

The Friday Music Club met in the home of Mrs. Garland Medders on October 27 and had a session in creative listening based on "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" by Paul Ducas, plus the concert overture from Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture." Mrs. Paul Morgan gave program notes on each selection before it was played on a Klipschorn, and she explained this was program music with a definite story or mood.

All sang the Hymn of the Month, "I Sing the Mighty Power of God" by Isaac Watts, before the president, Mrs. James McLarty, heard reports from the treasurer, Mrs. Harry McLamore, and membership chairman Mrs. H.A. Spraggins. In an orientation service, Mrs. Arch Wylie explained some facts about the music club federation. She also encouraged the members to attend the district meeting in Arkadelphia the following day. The members voted to put a copy of this year's study book in the Hempstead-Nevada Regional Library in memory of Mrs. Helen R. Marshall.

Mrs. Medders, Mrs. Calvin Smith and Mrs. Harry McLamore served cake and coffee to 18.

There's a new feeling for neatness and a tidy, well-brushed look along the school trail. Fashion authorities say it started with the boys. Some even are wearing shirts with collars and ties—even cut-back to school. Even their jeans fit better. The same for their sweaters. It all seems to have something to do with hair—which is shorter and neater. Have you noticed?

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

They Pray for a Dry Spell

DEAR HELEN:
My new neighbor heads up a religious group that insists liquor of any kind is the devil's own brew. Including beer.

I am a hope farmer. Our family income is based on sales to breweries. My neighbor and I have had words. This summer he heard about the southern preacher who prayed down drought, disease and pestilence on a vineyard. So he organized his followers to meet each morning just outside my acreage, kneeling facing the hops, and exhort God to wither my vines.

So far God has stayed on my side. We had a great year, but if these looks continue—well, I'm not superstitious, but I've heard prayer moves mountains, and maybe hope aren't immune.

They do no physical damage and they are on public property (the road side) so I can't bring suit. I'm told that prayer isn't creating a public nuisance.

They don't read newspapers, so feel free to print this.

What would you suggest?—HOPPING MAD

DEAR MAD:

While your fanatical neighbor prays for a "dry" spell, why don't you pray for a wet winter...which may keep him and his followers indoors? (They may still try to invoke hope-flops, but at least you won't see or hear them.)

Meanwhile, ignore to conquer. Public petitioners seldom continue with "reform" that rates no notice.—H.

P.S. I hope you're right about their non-reading habits: syndicated publicity isn't exactly "no notice"!

DEAR HELEN:

About the woman who eats a pound of washing starch per day: you were right to recommend a physician. This isn't as far-fetched a craving as you suppose. Back in 1867 a national newsmagazine carried a column about women who habitually eat starch. It warned that this can cause a deficiency in folic acid which, in turn, may cause premature births or bleeding near delivery time. It can also bring on anemia by blocking the body's absorption of iron. A correspondent answering the article said it is an old European superstition that eating starch aids in the baby's deliveries. False!

When the worried husband noted a change in his wife's complexion (anemia?) and the size of her stomach (pregnancy?) he was probably right on both counts.—PROFESSOR OR PSYCHOLOGY

DEAR HELEN:

This is for "Broke To Be" who worried about the high cost of weddings for his several daughters, and wished the grooms' parents might foot a little of the bill.

Haven't you heard? The groom's parents pay many wedding expenses plus half the reception quite often these days. If they refuse to pay, the couple uses the wedding gift checks to foot the reception.

Tradition is outdated. Back in the old days, a girl stayed home, did embroidery, learned housekeeping chores plus cooking; or, if she worked, she turned over her paycheck to the parents who, in turn, used part of the money for a big wedding. An unmarried female in the family was a disgrace, so the girl's folks were expected to meet all wedding expenses as sort of a bribe to get her off their hands.

Nowadays children seldom help around the house and they keep the money they make, so girls don't "earn" a fancy wedding. The man's parents should be equally happy to see HIM settled away from wild bachelorhood, so why shouldn't they share wedding bills? After all, his wife will probably work, which throws out the idea that "her" side pays for the celebration, but HE pays forever afterwards.

So smile, prospective parents of the brides: better days are coming!—PARENT OF GIRLS

DEAR PARENT:

...But they haven't arrived yet! Don't be surprised if some of your daughters' future in-laws haven't heard of these new rules.

...And I'd hate to be the parent who dunned the newlyweds out of their wedding checks, to pay for the reception!—H.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 19): You control handily by pulling the right strings. One exception is a small, old debt you'll be asked to repay.

TAURUS (Apr 20-May 20): The way you want to do things makes the most sense economically, but there's someone else whom you must convince that you're right.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your bright ideas are really quite good. They have speculative possibilities. Coworkers aren't as visionary.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Family management should be definitely left in your capable hands. Demanding youngsters may not agree.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22): You won't have much trouble getting others to do things your way. Just don't rock the boat at home.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22): You're more effective conducting things quietly behind the scenes. You benefit financially if you keep ideas to yourself.

This year you'll exercise a stronger influence over your immediate sphere of involvement. It's likely you'll receive more recognition for accomplishments.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23): Friends are willing to lend a hand to further your hopes, purposes. Don't try to buy this help with money or gifts.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22): Unusual circumstances give you a leg up. Pride or arrogance could keep you from looking as good as you should.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21): Your larger plans look promising. Petty individuals in the background are not as glad for you as they pretend to be.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19): The way you are presently doing things is best for your goals. A friend's advice is not as logical as it sounds.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19): New arrangements can be made to further your long-range plans. Keep promises reasonable so you can deliver.

PISCES (Feb 20-Mar 20): Something you've been working toward has increased in promise. Minor delays shouldn't fuel a negative outlook or feed doubts.

Wide pants make fashion scene

NEW YORK (AP)—Wide pants, inspired by 1930s men's trousers, were standouts at Geoffrey Beene's spring showing.

The wide pants were very good in soft, mushroom-colored jersey, topped with navy linen blazers.

Among the best were combinations of lush linens and jerseys—or chiffons and suedes—with Beene's well-known tailoring and clean lines.

A pale pink suede baseball jacket contrast with a blue pants ensemble, for instance.

Other news from Beene for spring is: the baby dolman sleeve, halters and the swallowtail lapel.

This lapel is rounded and sticks out. It makes you want to smooth it down. Beene liked it on several evening halter dresses, as well as full-skirted day styles.

Coty Award-winning designer John Anthony kept pants mostly for day. He's continued the straight cut, but has added pockets and belts.

"I want the collection to contrast innocence with great daring. That's how it is with any attractive woman," said Anthony following his spring show Thursday.

He's discarded most of his 1930s-inspired wide-lapelled jackets and has taken up the innocent cardigan. It was worn with wicked little georgette blouses, cut down in front.

"The whole collection is navy, red, green and/or white. For no reason except they are beautiful together," said Anthony.

For day, these colors were used for a series of precisely-cut, solid colored suits, with pants or skirts.

He did a series of striped sequin ensembles, in navy and white.

Some of his best evening clothes were innocent, white, full length and soft, with their own coats.

Hope routs Camden

The Hope Bobcats played before a hometown crowd for the last time this season Friday night and blasted their way to a 49-7 victory over the Camden Panthers.

Hope received the opening kickoff and set up camp at their own 36 yard line, where quick openers netted a first down at the Panther 49. Using an eleven yard pass from quarterback Robie Boyd to Ricky Hart, and a facemask penalty, the ball was moved to the Camden 24 yard line.

With the clock reading 8:30 left in the quarter, Boyd hit flanker Buddy Ingram for a 24 yard touchdown pass and a quick lead. Paul Basarr added on the extra point giving Hope a 7-0 margin.

Neither team could move the ball for the next few series, until the Bobcats took possession at their own 44 yard line with 3:47 left in the first period on an interception by James Robinson.

Using the running of David Johnson, who was questionable and did not start, the Cats powered their way to the Camden 19. At this point, Boyd let loose with another aerial that was pulled in by Ingram just as the buzzer sounded.

Basarr drilled the PAT through the uprights and the Bobcats now held a 14-0 lead, as both teams traded ends of the field.

Although Camden received the kickoff, the Panthers could go nowhere, and a 37 yard punt gave Hope the ball once again.

Beginning at their own 30, the Bobcats proceeded to quickly move downfield, taking only five plays to reach paydirt. The score came when Boyd unloaded a 35 yarder to Bud Martin, who had gotten behind the secondary. Basarr again hit the mark and Hope now held a 21-0 lead with 7:13 remaining in the first half - which is the way it ended.

Taking a breather during a fine halftime show by the band, the Bobcats took up where they left off.

Getting the ball from Camden with 6:19 left in the third period, Hope marched from their own 40 yard line to the Panther 22, where Boyd turned loose his fourth touchdown pass, again hitting Ingram in the endzone. Another perfect kick by Basarr and Hope held a commanding, 38-0, margin with 3:38 left in the third segment.

Here, Camden captured their only scoring opportunity, moving from their own 36 to the Bobcat endzone, when Tommy Grant hit off tackle for the last eight yards. The PAT, with 1:36 to go in the period, left Hope still leading, 38-7.

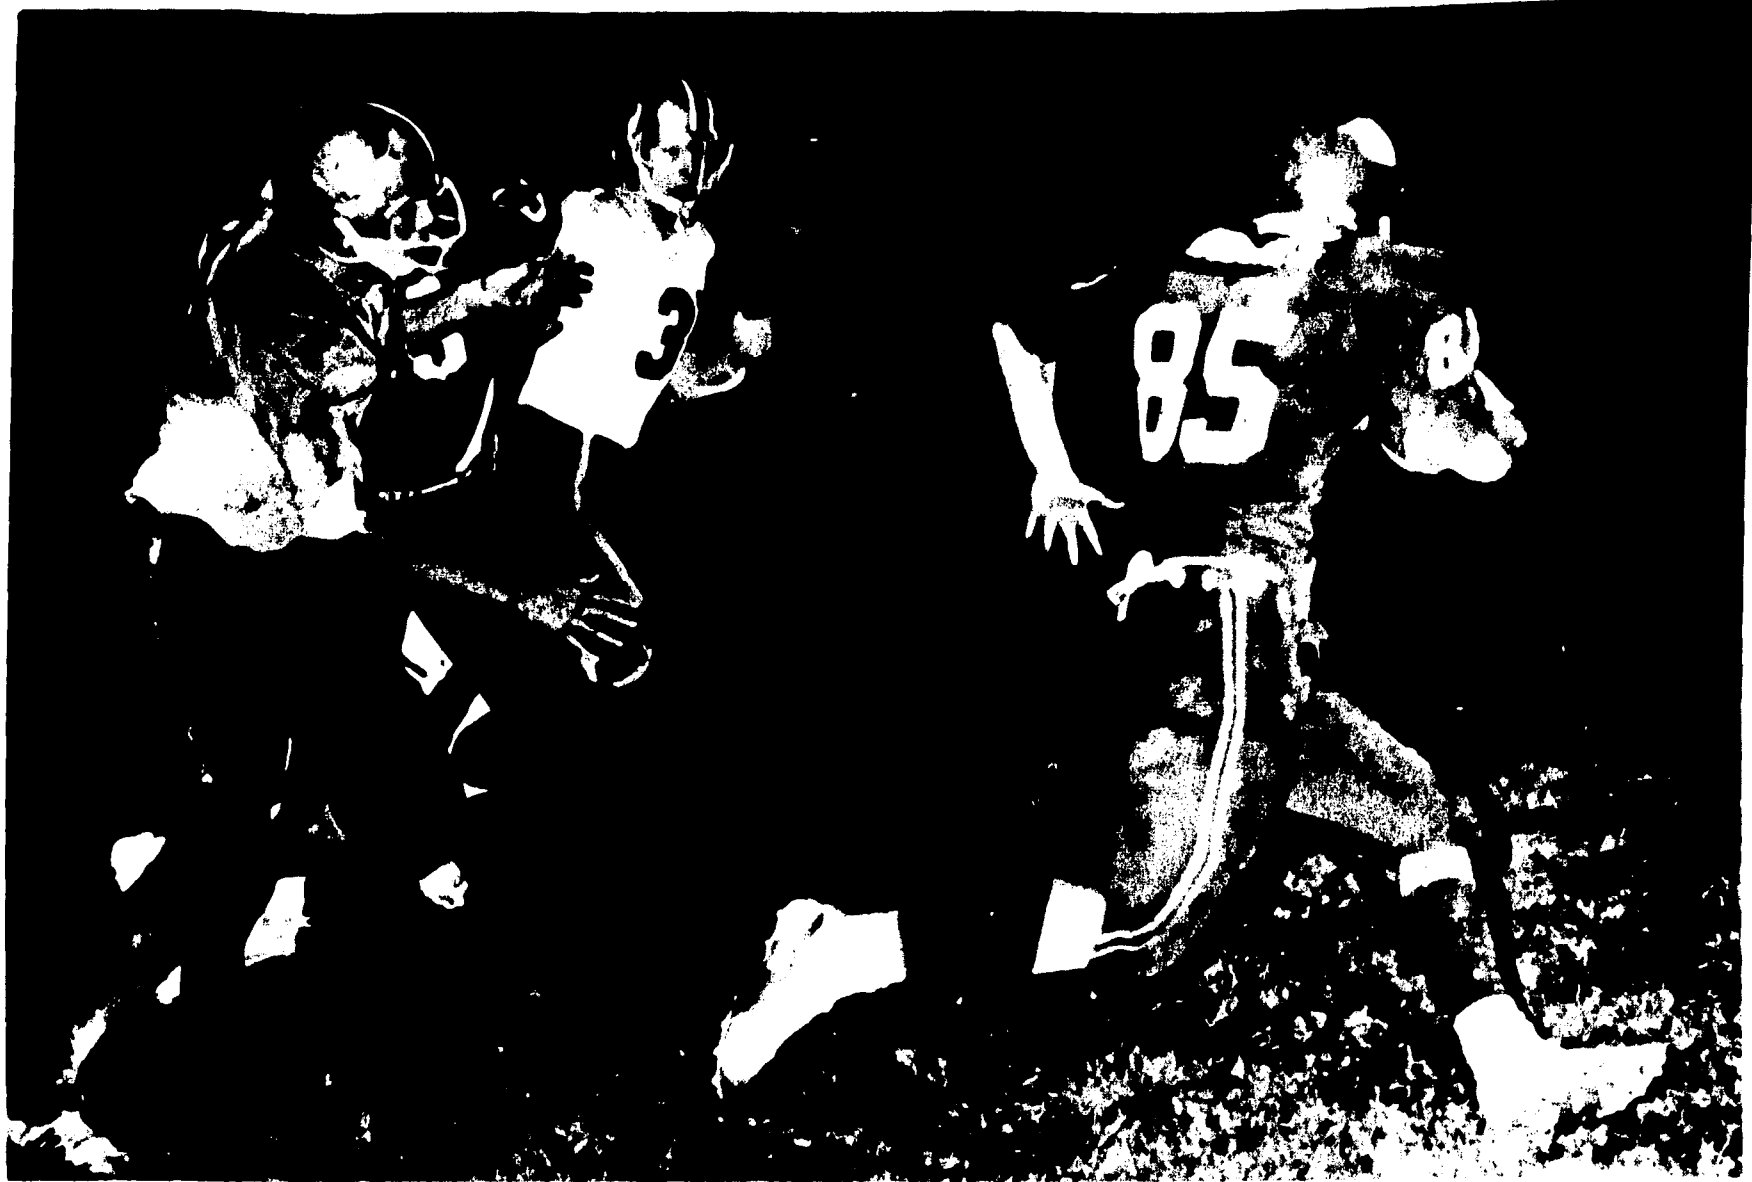

Early in the fourth quarter, with 10:18 remaining in the game, Hope scored again on a 37 yard run by Melvin Weston, set up two plays earlier on a David Huddleston interception. Although the extra point attempt was blocked, the Bobcats held a relaxing 34-7 margin, but they weren't through yet.

Two minutes later, with the Cats in possession at their own 38, Boyd directed another drive that consumed ten plays with Jerry Jackson hitting up the middle for the last eight yards. The two point conversion attempt failed, but Hope led 40-7, with only 3:10 left.

One last scoring attempt failed when Jackson intercepted a Panther pass at the Bobcat 42, and returned it to the Camden one yard line, before being caught from behind. However, Hope elected to run out the clock.

Next week the Bobcats carry a 7-2 record to Nashville for the final game of the season.

NTSU: Just what the coach ordered

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — North Texas State was just what Frank Broyles ordered.

The Eagles didn't play dead, yet Arkansas was able to take a look at some young players under game pressure.

The offensive regulars played long enough to build up a 35-0 lead and then turned it over to the young players who rang up the final 42-16 score here Saturday night.

"We told our football players that we're starting our second season," Broyles said Sunday. "We told them that if we wanted to have a good football team in November we'd have to start now. We spent the week not just practicing for North Texas State, but practicing for these four conference games in November."

"We didn't go out and just flop around," Broyles said. "We didn't just wait for them to give us something. We earned much of what we got and I was quite pleased."

North Texas dropped its line-backers about four yards off the line of scrimmage, daring Arkansas to run up the middle.

"People had been giving us the run and we were determined to run the ball," Broyles said. "They were trying to force us inside, figuring we wouldn't be satisfied with staying inside."

The Razorbacks' balance against the Eagles was perfect — 256 yards rushing and 256 passing, 12 first downs rushing and 12 passing.

"That ought to be in Believe It or Not," Broyles said.

Jon Richardson scored twice on the inside belly series out of the wishbone formation and Dickey Morton topped 100 yards rushing for the third straight week, netting 121 yards on 21 attempts.

Morton had 85 yards on 19 carries in the first half and UA representatives in the press box informed the coaches that Morton needed another 15 yards to top the 100-yard mark. His second carry of the third quarter netted 34 yards and he left the game two plays later.

Quarterback Joe Ferguson completed his first seven passes and wound up with 12 of 15 for 184 yards and two touchdowns before leaving the game with four minutes left in the third period.

The Razorbacks scored on their second and third possessions to take a 14-0 lead and then came what Broyles called one of the "disappointments" of the game. The Eagles were able to move from their own 15 to the Arkansas eight before the defense held. On fourth down from the five, Mark Hollingsworth reached back to deflect a pass.

Broyles said Hollingsworth, who came to Arkansas as a receiver, has "stabilized our pass defense."

Hollingsworth intercepted one pass, recovered a fumble and battled down a couple of other passes.

"He has the sensitivity to know where the receiver is going," Broyles said. "He's run so many pass routes himself he senses what the receiver is trying to do."

Doug Yoder and Ivan Jordan, both freshmen, played most of the game at defensive end and both turned in impressive performances.

"Yoder and Jordan have a chance to give us some muscle," Broyles said. "Both are 6-foot-3, 210-215, with 4.6 to 4.8 speed. We have to have a little more muscle on the flank."

Broyles was one of the coaches who supported the proposal adopted by the National Collegiate Athletic Association that permitted freshmen to play with the varsity.

"What I thought would happen has happened," Broyles said. "By November, some of the freshmen are able to play and others are able to give you depth."

The Razorbacks played 10 freshmen against the Eagles.

One of the most impressive nonstarters was sophomore Marsh White. Considered to be the answer to the Razorbacks' fullback problems last year, White missed most of spring practice and was then injured in the season opener against Southern Cal.

Staubach waiting in the wings

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas quarterback Craig Morton has been given the privilege of "winning or losing" tonight's nationally televised joust with the Detroit Lions, but the Cowboy boo-birds and Roger Staubach are waiting in the wings if things don't go well for the Super Bowl kings.

The Cowboys are 4-2 and again in a desperate fight to gain the National Football League playoffs.

Morton was Staubach's understudy as the Cowboys marched to the Super Bowl VI title. Staubach suffered a shoulder separation in August but is now hale and hearty, sitting on the bench.

Morton threw two fourth quarter interceptions in a 34-10 loss to Washington last week and runs far behind Staubach in popularity among Cowboy fans.

Longhorns crush Owls

Southern Methodist finds itself on the tracks directly in front of the burnt Orange Express this week just when Texas Coach Darrell Royal has found a way to keep his big train running without periodically limping to a stop.

Indeed, the Longhorns were a polished machine as they crushed Rice 45-9 Saturday in a Southwest Conference game to bolt into sole ownership of the loop lead at 3-0. Texas is seeking its fifth consecutive SWC title.

Texas Tech, which has already lost to Texas, dumped Southern Methodist from the league unbeaten ranks with a 17-3 thumping. Tech is 2-1. "We've still got a chance,"

SMU, TCU, Arkansas and Baylor shaved luckless Texas A&M 15-13 Saturday night in the only other SWC game on the card.

The Purple Gang has been reincarnated, although Carl Eller believes that it's still a ghost of its former self.

After the Minnesota Vikings demonstrated some of their old-time defensive magic in beating the Green Bay Packers 27-13 Sunday, their ringleader declared:

"We're not back yet ... wherever we've been, we're not back."

The brawny defensive end referred to Minnesota's unimpressive 3-4 record and unimposing last-place posture in the National Football Conference's Central Division.

They were destined for better things this year, according to general opinion.

"But we haven't been playing well," said Minnesota Coach Bud Grant, whose team has won four straight Central crowns.

No matter where the Purple Gang has been hiding, those tough guys were just as bullish as ever Sunday in pushing around a fairly potent offensive team.

Paul Krause and Wally Hilgenberg each intercepted a Scott Hunter pass and wheeled back for touchdowns and Eller and his bruising mates on that Front Four wall made life miserable for the Packers' gifted quarterback.

"I'd have to call this our best game of the season," said Grant. "Now we've got to play them one at a time. I know that's a cliché, but I think it applies here."

Minnesota's victory spoiled a chance for Green Bay to take over possession of first place in the nervous Central Division race. The Packers, who started the day tied with the Detroit Lions, fell to a 4-3 record and a half-game behind the Lions.

Detroit meets the Dallas Cowboys tonight.

The Cowboys, defending National Football League champions, fell 1 1/2 games off Washington's pace in the East as a result of the Redskins' 23-16 victory over the New York Giants Sunday.

In the other games, the Miami Dolphins trounced the Baltimore Colts 23-0; the New York Jets humbled the New England Patriots 34-10; the Cincinnati Bengals clouted the Houston Oilers 30-7; the Pittsburgh Steelers trimmed the Buffalo Bills 38-21; the Oakland Raiders hammered the Los Angeles Rams 45-17; the Kansas City Chiefs defeated the San Diego Chargers 26-14; the Cleveland Browns tripped the Denver Broncos 27-20; the San Francisco 49ers crushed the Atlanta Falcons 49-14; the New Orleans Saints stopped the Philadelphia Eagles 21-3 and the Chicago Bears bombed the St. Louis Cardinals 27-10.

The Vikings' alert defense picked off four of Hunter's passes altogether and held the Big Green Machine to a paltry total of 99 yards, rushing and passing.

Larry Brown ripped off 191 yards rushing in the best day of his pro career to lead Washington over New York. Brown scored two touchdowns, including a 38-yard run that broke a 9-9 tie in the third quarter. The "Skins" added an important insurance TD in the fourth period on Billy Kilmer's five-yard pass that proved to be the winning points.

The victory, which improved Washington's record to 6-1, may cost a lot for the Redskins. Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen suffered a torn Achilles tendon that will sideline him for the rest of the season and possibly end his fine 16-year career.

The Detroit Pistons lost one for Earl Lloyd ... and won one for Ray Scott.

Lloyd lost his job as coach of the National Basketball Association team after dropping a 130-118 decision to Houston over the weekend, the club's fifth setback in seven starts.

Scott, a former assistant coach elevated to the head spot, notched his first victory on Sunday night when the Pistons stopped the Portland Trail Blazers 119-111.

Scott, like Lloyd, is a former Pistons player. Lloyd lasted just about a year as the Detroit coach. He was hired last Nov. 1 after Bill Van Breda Kolff suddenly resigned.

For a while, it looked as though Scott's debut would be a losing one Sunday night. The Pistons trailed the Trail Blazers 90-81 after three quarters before Bob Lanier led a fourth-period rally to turn the game around.

Cornhuskers: Another shutout

By HERSCHEL NIBBENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

What has the current Nebraska football team accomplished that the national champions of 1970 and 1971 didn't... besides losing a game, that is?

The answer is four straight shutouts, the first time a Nebraska team has turned that trick in 35 years.

The latest was Saturday's 34-0 whitewash of Oklahoma State, a club which Coach Bob Devaney called "about as good a football team as we've played."

It was the sixth consecutive triumph for the Cornhuskers following an opening-game loss to UCLA, a stretch in which they've outscored the opposition 315-14.

"We did a great job of defending their wishbone," Devaney said after his defensive unit limited the Cowboys to 134 yards on 46 rushes and a mere 77 yards through the air. "And offensively, any time you're able to score 34 points you've done a good job."

As usual, the most impressive of Nebraska's famed defensive "Black Shirts" was nose guard Rich Glover, who made 11 tackles and shut down the middle as Oklahoma State managed to invade Nebraska territory only three times.

Meanwhile, sophomore Dave Hamm hurled touchdown passes to Johnny Rodgers and Bob Reville and Rodgers galloped 17 yards for another score.

While Nebraska, ranked third nationally, was taking over first place in the Big Eight, the Cornhuskers' arch rival, eighth-ranked Oklahoma, bounced back from its lone setback by walling Kansas 22-0 and Missouri made it two straight upsets by shading seventh-rated Colorado 20-17 on Greg Hill's 33-yard field goal with six seconds to play.

Top-rated Southern California continued toward its Nov. 18 Pacific-8 showdown with UCLA by defeating stubborn Oregon 18-0 while the ninth-ranked Bruins were beating Washington State 20-0.

The Big Ten, which provides the Rose Bowl opponent for the Pac-8 champion, remained in a three-way deadlock. Fourth-ranked Ohio State held off Wisconsin 20-10, No. 5 Michigan shellacked Minnesota 43-0 and unranked Purdue got by winless Illinois 20-14.

Second-ranked Alabama pulled away from Southern Mississippi in the second half 40-11 while Southeastern Conference rival Louisiana State, rated sixth, was idle. Texas, No. 10, continued its quest for a fifth straight Southwest Conference crown with a 46-0 romp over Rice.

AIC roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

League-leading Arkansas Tech came from behind Saturday night to hand rival State College of Arkansas a 20-10 defeat in Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference play at Conway.

In other AIC action, it was Southern State over Ouachita 35-14; Austin Peay downed the University of Arkansas-Monticello 17-4; Harding whipped Mississippi College 40-3; Florence State beat Henderson State 21-0; and the University of Arkansas-Pine Bluff got by Kentucky State 40-34.

Trailing 10-14, Tech went ahead on Rick Hampton's one-yard plunge after Kent Bartlett intercepted a pass at the CA 34. Hampton scored later on another one-yard dive following Mike Wilkerson's interception at the Bear 36.

The Bears scored first on an 18-yard run by Nathaniel Daniel, but Tech's Benny Shepherd countered with a 50-yard scoring gallop. Mike Walls then kicked SCA ahead in the second quarter with field goals of 22 and 31 yards.

Tech scored in the third period on Rick Pilkington's five-yard run.

SCA went into its final lead on a three-yard pass from Wesley Burks to Bill White.

Cleo House and Cornell Williams each scored twice in Southern State's 20-14 win over Ouachita.

Williams scored on run of one and 20 yards in the third period. House scored on runs of two yards and one yard, also in the third quarter.

The other Southern State touchdown came on a two-yard plunge by Roy McLamore.

Sabres sock it to 'em

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's 10 games down and 68 to go for Buffalo's stunning Sabres—still unbeaten in this National Hockey League season.

The Sabres and sensational Rick Martin continued to sock it to their bigger brothers over the weekend and stayed on top of first place Montreal—rarified atmosphere for the 3-year-old franchise.

Martin scored his 12th and 13th goals of the young season Sunday night as the Sabres whipped Minnesota 2-1 and stayed just two points back of first place Montreal.

The Canadiens edged Detroit 2-1 and also remained unbeaten. In other games, Johnny Bucyk scored his 400th career goal as Boston rocked the New York Islanders 9-1, Rod Gilbert picked up four assists in the New York Rangers' 7-1 romp over Chicago, and Philadelphia whipped Toronto 5-2.

In Saturday's NHL action, it was Buffalo 3, Montreal 3; Boston 3, Toronto 2; Chicago 4, New York Islanders 4; Atlanta 2, Vancouver 1; St. Louis 3, Detroit 3; Minnesota 2, Philadelphia 1; and Los Angeles 5, Pittsburgh 2.

Martin, who set a rookie goal scoring record with 44 last season, leads the league with his early start this year.

The young left winger gave the Sabres the first period lead when he took a cross-risk pass from Rene Robert and charged in alone against Cesare Maniago.

Martin clicked again in the second period when he got lucky, flipping a shot from the corner that bounced in off Maniago's leg.

Detroit, which won its first six games, dropped its third in a row as Montreal remained unbeaten.

Rookie Murray Wilson scored his first NHL goal for the Canadiens and veteran Pete Mahovlich also connected. Billy Gadsen's goal with just over three minutes left, deprived Montreal goalie Ken Dryden of his fourth shutout.

Brad Park scored a goal with the game just 25 seconds old and then the New York Rangers added three more before the first period was over to whack Chicago.

Boston's Bucyk became the eighth player in NHL history to reach 400 goals for his career, clicking twice against the expansionist New York Islanders. Rookie Greg Sheppard, called up from the American League last Friday, scored the first three goals of his NHL career for the Bruins. Another rookie, Terry O'Reilly, had three assists in the romp.

Rick MacLeish scored two goals for Philadelphia as the Flyers whipped Toronto before a crowd of 15,514—largest ever to see an NHL game in Pennsylvania.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The rookie beat the old master, but aging Arnold Palmer mired in one of the most frustrating slumps of his legendary career—has no thoughts at all of calling it quits.

"Hell," snorted the 49-year-old Palmer after losing by one stroke to Lanny Wadkins Sunday in the final round of the Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament, "I'll still be playing when he's retired."

That may be stretching it just a bit, considering that Wadkins is only 22.

Remarks by Bumpers are criticized

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Remarks by Gov. Dale Bumpers last Tuesday before the Legislative Council drew criticism Sunday from the Arkansas Women's Political Caucus of the 2nd Congressional District.

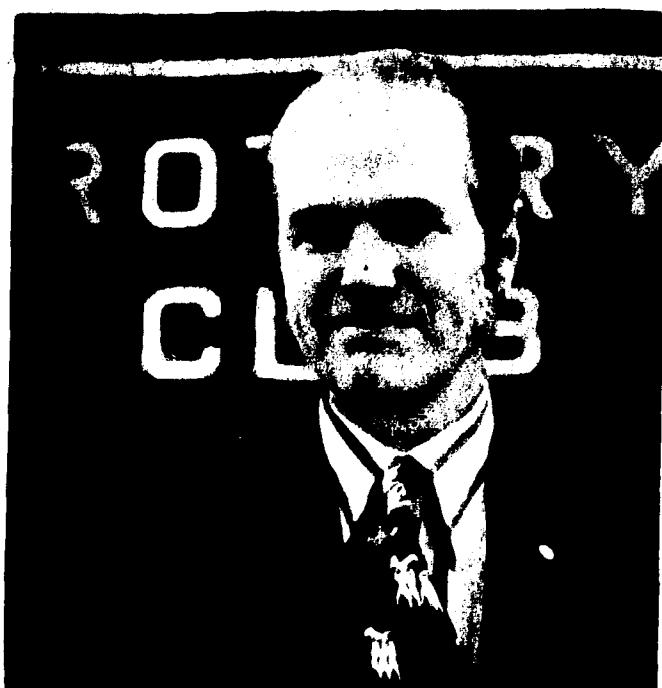

Bumpers, in discussing a proposal to relieve State Police of motor vehicle inspection and driver licensing programs, said women could be hired to handle the driver licensing program.

He smiled and said he hoped there were "women libbers" in the council chambers to hear that statement. But then he went on to say, in an apparent slip of the tongue, that this would cut costs, bringing a roar from the legislators at the implication that women could be paid less for doing the jobs. Bumpers quickly added that such a program would increase job opportunities for women.

"It is bad enough that women often cannot get equal pay for equal work," the caucus said in a resolution adopted at its regular meeting Sunday. "When the governor of the state publicly condones this, it only adds insult to injury."

The group said it was hopeful that Arkansas had rid itself of the "barefoot and pregnant" thinking "that once typified hiring practices in the state."

MARK OUDIN

District governor of Rotary Clubs is guest

Rotary District Governor Mark Oudin, president of Oudin and Company, Inc., an insurance firm in Pine Bluff, made his official visit to the Hope Rotary Club at the Town and Country Friday, October 27. Using the year's theme, "Let's Take a New Look and Act," he encouraged the Rotarians to examine their club projects for the year and then to expand on the more productive ones. Noting the rise and fall of membership in the Hope Rotary Club, the District Governor urged the members to concentrate on building their number in the coming year.

He spoke of the Rotary Foundation, which has grown from a $43 beginning at Kansas City in 1921 to an $11 million project of inter-national scope today. Its activities are three-fold: to give a fellowship on the graduate level for foreign study, to have a group study exchange program, and to give further education to teachers of the handicapped. In conclusion, the guest speaker stressed the Rotary Club motto: He profits most who serves best.

Perry Henley Jr. was a student guest for the second week, and he introduced another Hope High student,

Joey Clark, a first-time visitor. Vice president Bob Gulleott presided over the meeting and welcomed the visitors that also included Tommy Crouch and the Rev. Ralph Madison Jr.

Safety tricks make Halloween a treat

Unexpected safety hazards may lurk in the most innocent-seeming Halloween costume, so Dr. Newte R. Nelson, highway safety chairman for the Arkansas Optometric Association, has prepared a list of suggestions which can reduce the accident and injury rate on October 31.

It's a good idea to use makeup instead of masks for little spooks and goblins. "A poorly fitted mask, which can easily slip out of position, or a mask with small eye slits can block a child's view of oncoming cars, objects in his path, a hole, a step, or even the curb," says Dr. Nelson. Makeup of non-allergic varieties can be used to create disguises as hoboes, clowns, witches, gypsies, or whatever.

Dr. Nelson added that pieces of retro-reflective material should be applied to costumes to make the young wearers highly visible to drivers after dark. This material (frequently used to mark bicycles) is usually available at automotive supply stores, variety chains and discount houses.

"Let the kids make up their own designs in the reflective tape," says Dr. Nelson. "Just make sure that they will be visible from front, back and sides."

Homeowners should clear yards and porches of toys and garden tools which might be a temptation to trick-or-treaters—or which might cause a child to trip or fall over the ground-level obstacle.

As a final bit of Halloween advice, Dr. Nelson suggests that parents caution their children not to walk in the street (they should use yards if no sidewalks are laid through the neighborhood) and to look carefully before crossing a street, doing so at a corner with a street light if at all possible. And, as an extra precaution, give each child a battery-operated light to carry so that he can see more safely and so that others can see him.

Gorilla suits all gone

CHICAGO (AP) — "It's always the same, gorilla-gorilla. We were out of gorilla suits the second week in October."

Marcella Hentschel's comment means Chicago area residents are going to find a lot of hairy chest-thumpers outside their doors and at their parties Halloween night.

Draculas and witches — pretty ones this year — also can be expected.

Gorillas, Dracula and the witches with nose jobs have replaced clowns and the Roaring '20s as the most popular roles for the well-dressed Halloween goblin, say costume rental proprietors here.

"What the fascination is about gorilla suits, I just don't know," said Ed Roman, manager of the House of Roman on the South Side.

At Marcella's Costumes & Party Supplies and the Broadway Costume House, Dracula rates No. 2.

In suburban Berwyn, Claire Powell, owner of the Powell Academy of Theatre Arts, said, "I hope I never see another gorilla costume. And Dracula, for that matter."

Miss Powell said the mainstay of her business, as in previous years, however, is devils and witches, now being made glamorous instead of ugly.

As in high fashion, Halloween fashions change from year to year.

"Last year it was clowns for some reason, but that's not true this year," said Miss Powell.

Bringing back the blimp to the skies

MIAMI (AP) — As a member of a select society of dirigible pilots, Capt. Frank Hogan would like to bring back the blimp so people can fly low and slow and rediscover America.

"For the last 10 years, speed, speed, speed has been the thing," says Hogan, the pilot of a blimp named Mayflower. "People are getting away from that."

At the age of 50, Hogan has spent the past two decades guiding the big buzzing balloons through the nation's skies. He is one of 20 dirigible pilots flying for Goodyear Inc., which operates four of the five blimps now operating in the world.

He hopes for the day of the "superblimp," a giant ship carrying 300 people instead of six passengers and a pilot, which would slowly tool across the American continent at 40 or 50 miles an hour.

Passengers could relax in luxurious lounges, "watching the jack rabbits" bouncing along the prairies as he now does on promotional trips between visits to various cities.

"I think I could sell a lot of trips across the country," Hogan said.

Halloween is old holiday

Halloween nowadays is an evening of fun for the little ones, of dressing up in costumes, going to parties, and begging goodies door-to-door. But there is more to Halloween. It is an unbelievable mixture of ancient festivals, medieval superstition, and Christian belief.

Halloween is the direct descendant of a harvest festival eve celebrated in Britain by the Druids long before the Christian era. The night before the festival was called "All Soul's Eve," and on this night "Saman", the Lord of Death, called together all the souls of wicked men who had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals. The Druids believed that Saman then decided what forms the condemned souls should take for the next year.

The belief that evil spirits roam among men on Halloween can be traced to this Druidic "gathering of the souls."

Druids also are supposedly responsible for linking the cat with evil on Halloween. They believed that cats were human beings who were changed into animals in punishment for some crime. This superstition took many forms and, later, cats were standard equipment for anyone who practiced witchcraft.

When Caesar's legions invaded Britain, the Roman Feast of Pomona mingled with the Druidic celebration. Pomona was the goddess of the autumn harvest—and nuts and apples were eaten at her festival. To this day, nuts and apples have a place in Halloween festivities.

In an effort to curb the pagan aspect of the evening, the early Christian Church set aside November first as "All Saints' Day." The evening before was then called "Hallowed Evening" which was corrupted to "Halloween."

Throughout the years the legends and superstitions grew. The origin of the jack-o'-lantern can be traced to Ireland. The legend says that a man named Jack was barred from heaven because he was stingy. When Jack got to Hell the devil refused to admit him, because, as a human, Jack had played practical jokes on Satan. So the stingy practical joker was condemned to walk the streets with a lantern until judgment day.

Waxing widders comes from the British "Chalk-Back" Day. Street ruffians would chalk the backs of adults with circles to indicate that the rule of the summer sun was over.

Children in ancient times were quick to see that Halloween superstition offered many opportunities for mischief. If gates disappeared and horses and cattle were mysteriously turned loose, the townfolk blamed it on spooks and ghosts. At the time, it was believed that wicked souls took the form of adults, so the children began dressing as grown-ups. If anyone saw the costumed youngsters engaged in a prank, a spook would be blamed. The World Book researchers say that this may have been the beginning of costumes for Halloween.

The train crewmen's union in all 50 states agrees that only three or four men are required to run a train safely.

Vote FOR Act 1

All over the nation, crews of three or four men are running trains as safely as are six-man crews in Arkansas.

In Arkansas, unfair and unnecessary laws require a crew of six on freight trains. We're the only state in the country with such laws. Even the train crewmen's own union—the United Transportation Union—has accepted crews smaller than six men.

Safety standards will not be compromised by your vote for Act 1. Two men on the crew will still be in the front cab of the locomotive maintaining safe train operation. And consider this fact: during a period when train crew sizes have been reduced nationally, the safety record of American railroads has been improving in recent years.

Vote FOR Act 1.

When you vote FOR Act 1, you won't cost anyone his job.

Heiskell: Still active at age 100

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — John Netherland Heiskell, the witty, still-active publisher of the Arkansas Gazette who is nearing his 100th birthday, says the same basic reporting principles of accuracy and fairness prevail today as they did when he wrote his first newspaper article 79 years ago.

"The role of the newspaper is to print the news as fully as it can and to print it impartially," he said in a recent interview. "It can be as loud as it pleases in its editorial columns in opposing the other side, but it should be absolutely factual in its news columns."

Heiskell, editor of the Gazette since 1902, marks his 100th birthday Thursday. The event will be observed with a reception attended by about 750 friends, including E. K. Gaylord, owner of the Daily Oklahoman and Times at Oklahoma City, who is only a few months younger than Heiskell.

"I'm sure that the only reason I'm still around is because of an oversight on the part of the Lord," he said. "I'm sure that He is going to correct that oversight some day. I'm glad He can't make it retroactive."

Born in Rogersville, Tenn., the son of a lawyer, Heiskell began his newspaper career in 1893 on the Knoxville, Tenn., Tribune after graduating from the University of Tennessee. He later worked for the Memphis Commercial Appeal and for The Associated Press in Chicago and Louisville, Ky., before purchasing the Gazette in 1902 in partnership with his father, C. W.; his brother, Fred, and Fred Allsopp of Little Rock.

The Gazette had a circulation of about 6,000, Heiskell recalled, "and that was all it deserved."

From that, he led the morning newspaper to a Pulitzer prize for public service and built it into the largest daily in Arkansas with 112,000 circulation statewide.

The Pulitzer was for the Gazette's editorial opposition to then-Gov. Orval E. Faubus' 1957 effort to prevent desegregation of Little Rock Central High School. Harry Ashmore, then the paper's executive editor, also won a Pulitzer.

Heiskell, who says he is in good health "considering my advanced age," stopped driving his Mercedes-Benz four or five years ago — "I didn't want to become a traffic hazard" — and dropped daily office calls about a year ago. He writes only occasionally now for the Gazette's editorial page, contributing what the newspaper calls "editorial paragraphs," short and usually witty commentaries on the news.

He reads his newspaper critically each day and his staff hears from him often. "I even read the back pages," he said.

"I had a recent dialogue with him on a familiar topic — he said he hated to bring up an unpleasant subject but that our editorials were getting too long again," said J. O. Powell, editor of the Gazette's editorial page. "As an editor, he has been a man to write sparingly, in the same way he talks."

Heiskell professed to have no advice for young journalists. "I've always said that journalists are born just as musicians and artists are born," he said. "If he is born with a gift, he doesn't need advice."

A scrap Heiskell apparently savors was the long-running feud with Jeff Davis, Arkansas' first three-term governor, initially elected in 1900. It was Davis who said that if his son turned out to be "a complete idiot, a man who just doesn't have any judgment about anything, God help us, I'm going to send him up to Little Rock to be the editor of the Arkansas Gazette."

Davis later was elected to the U. S. Senate and when he died in office Heiskell was appointed to replace him. Heiskell served less than a month and his maiden Senate speech also was his last.

"Maybe we should have more of that in the Senate," he has said.

Heiskell has won several honors from journalism organizations and institutions. Sigma Delta Chi, the national society of journalists, also has designated the newspaper as an historic site in journalism.

Heiskell said he had not retired when most men do because "I found the most rewarding experience was to keep working — I felt I could contribute something to the Gazette and, knowing that, I would not be willing to drop everything and be idle."

McGovern: Carrying banner of righteousness

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern considers himself more than the Democratic presidential nominee. In his view he carries the hopes of righteousness and morality into the election one week from Tuesday.

The attitude has been implicit in his speeches and statements from the beginning. Now it is on the record.

Asked whether he views the campaign as a crusade of good against evil, and one in which the conscience of America will not let him lose, McGovern replied: "That's exactly the way I see it."

In Spokane, Wash., at a Roman Catholic university, McGovern described the choice this way: "Most of all we have a crisis of the spirit right here in our country that challenges every thoughtful American in this land, the question of whether we're going to stand for decency, for equality, for justice and these old-fashioned ideals that provide the underpinning of our society, or whether we're going to vote for four more years of the kind of manipulation and deceit and deception that has cursed this country ever since January of 1968."

That is when President Nixon took office. Many a politician has claimed to offer the voters political salvation. To that, McGovern adds what he acknowledges to be the unique concept of moral salvation at the polling booth.

That outlook permeates the campaign of the Methodist minister's son who once studied for the clergy himself.

"Abraham Lincoln once was asked if he thought God was on his side," McGovern said in Seattle Saturday night. "Lincoln replied, 'I am much more interested in making sure that I am on the side of God.' That is what our country needs."

Quoting Franklin D. Roosevelt, McGovern said the presidency "is pre-eminently a place of moral leadership, and that is the kind of president I want to be."

That outlook accounts for the absolute terms in which he describes what he considers to be the evils of Nixon's leadership. He has judged Nixon's the most corrupt administration in American history, saying that for the first time "we have officials right at the top of the government who have betrayed their public trust."

McGovern has termed Nixon's bombing of Southeast Asia "the most evil thing ever done by an American president."

Another president, Lyndon B. Johnson, first ordered the bombing of North Vietnam. McGovern opposed it then, too. McGovern recounts the story of a black man telling him in New York that the election "will morally break your heart" because the voters are disgusted with Nixon's leadership.

"I happen to think the American people are better than that," McGovern said.

The window ledges in front of the school administration building afforded good seats for many youngsters to view Hope High School's homecoming parade Friday afternoon.

At left, several parade-watchers found the awning over a downtown store the ideal spot for taking pictures.

How to save money on your heating bill this winter

Pierre Trudeau: Will he stay or will he go?

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

TORONTO (AP) — Canadians are voting today to decide whether Pierre Elliott Trudeau continues as their prime minister and if he does, whether he will have a sizable majority in the House of Commons.

How much of the so-called "Trudeaumania" that sparked his Liberal party's 1968 sweep has worn off? How much of the Trudeau personality-plus magic remains? These are key questions as the 53-year-old Liberal standard-bearer asks an often fickle Canadian electorate for endorsement of his first four years in office.

Some political seers regard the Liberals under Trudeau as unbeatable, but he wants enough House of Commons seats to assure a comfortable majority and a sympathetic legislature.

This federal campaign fell short of igniting flames of public excitement. Trudeau's performance has been much less dazzling than in 1968 when his party won almost 60 per cent of the 264 House seats.

When Trudeau dissolved Parliament this fall and called this election, the House lineup was Liberal, 147; Conservative, 73; New Democratic Party, 25; Social Credit, 13; independent, 2; vacant, 4. Trudeau had an ample working majority.

If Trudeau's campaign lacked the fire of 1968, his Conservative rivals put on a lackluster performance under Robert L. Stanfield, whom the Tories often and glumly referred to as "not dynamic." Polls and seers said the Liberals had a good chance of winning enough seats for another majority.

The 1968 Liberal victory permitted Trudeau to govern a full span of more than four years. Under the Canadian system, a prime minister can dissolve Parliament and call an election when he chooses, but the law says there must be a general election within every five years. The party winning the most House of Commons seats has the right to form a government and its House leader becomes the prime minister.

Bumpers says lean days may be ahead

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Saturday that despite a dramatic upsurge in state revenues, a drop just as dramatic could occur.

For this reason, the governor said, the 1973 Arkansas Legislature should be conservative in budgeting the record revenue surplus that is accumulating in the state treasury. He recommended that not all the surplus be spent.

"We must set back a reserve and not budget all of this money because I know leaner days are coming," Bumpers said.

He said he wanted to invest the surplus in "tangible benefits, something that our children and grandchildren will years from now look back and say, 'I'm glad the legislature and the governor were far-sighted enough to invest the money in these things back in 1973.'"

It's not that hard to do. All it takes is a little time and effort. And you may have to spend some money in order to save some, but you'll come out ahead in the long run.

Here are recommendations that will help you save money on your heating bill, whether you heat with gas or electricity. Naturally, we're sold on electric heat. If you would like to hear our reasons, call your local AP&L office and ask to speak to your Customer Service Representative.

1. Lower the thermostat setting every night approximately 10 degrees from normal setting. Keep it at this level if you are away from your home for 24 hours or more. Thermostat settings above normal cause the system to operate longer at increased costs, while lower settings decrease costs.

2. Have your heating equipment checked to make sure it is operating efficiently. Change filters when dirty. Heating equipment with dirty filters will not operate efficiently or economically.

3. Insulate exterior walls, ceilings and floors. Start with the attic and work down. If you feel drafts of cold air, you can be sure your heating dollars are being wasted. Find out where the cold air is coming from and install weather stripping. Heating costs for properly insulated homes are always lower.

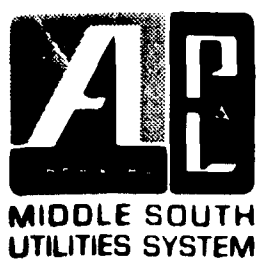

4. Much lower heating costs can be realized with the addition of storm windows and doors and insulated ceilings, walls and floors. Cracks around windows or door frames should be caulked. Consult your heating contractor about the proper type of insulation, storm windows and doors and complete weather stripping for all openings.

5. Keep fireplace use to a minimum. Fireplaces waste heat. When fireplace is not in use, make sure the damper is closed.

6. Vents for ventilation of attics and crawl spaces should be opened sufficiently to allow a minimum flow of air to control condensation. Excessive moisture in crawl spaces or attics can destroy the effect of insulating materials and increase operating costs.

7. For maximum comfort and economy, every home should be equipped with a humidifier. Proper moisture control is essential for economical operation because air that is too dry requires more heat for a comfort level.

8. Make full use during the day of the sun's heat by keeping blinds and curtains open where direct sunlight is available.

One killed in skyjacking of airplane

By NICK TATRO
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — One airline employee was killed and another wounded in the hijacking of an Eastern Airlines jetliner from Texas to Cuba. The FBI identified two of the sky pirates as a former Commerce Department executive and his teenage son.

The father and son named by the FBI were Charles A. Tuller Jr., 44, and Bryce M. Tuller, 19. The FBI said the two also were wanted in connection with a Virginia bank holdup in which a police officer and a bank manager were killed by bandits last week.

The FBI identified a third hi-jacker as William Graham, 18. The fourth man was not named. All four skyjackers remained in Cuba when the jetliner, carrying 33 passengers and a crew of seven, returned to Miami from Havana.

Air piracy warrants were issued against the Tullers and Graham, and a Houston, Tex., judge set bond early today at $1 million apiece.
A burst of shots as the airliner was commandeered at Houston early Sunday took the life of Eastern ticket agent Stan Hubbard, 34, of Humble, Tex. Wyatt S. Wilkinson Jr., a 28-year-old refueler also from Humble, was wounded by two shots in the left arm.

The 727, en route from San Antonio, Tex., to Syracuse, N.Y., with stops at Houston and Atlanta, was being readied for the resumption of its flight at Houston when the hijackers struck.

"We don't know whether the people who did the hijacking boarded here in Houston or whether they boarded at San Antonio and took action while they were on the ground in Houston," said H.C. Battelle, Eastern's Houston manager for administration and control.

"We're still not sure what happened in Houston," Eastern's information officer, Jim Ashlock, said. "The gate agent may have spotted a weapon or something, but we don't know."

Ordered to fly to Cuba, Capt. Lee E. Hines, 41, of Atlanta made a 46-minute refueling stop at New Orleans. The hijackers directed a ground crewman there, Ernest Raymond, to strip to his underwear before they allowed him to approach the aircraft to refuel it.

The hijacked plane spent seven hours in Havana before flying back to Miami. It landed here at 2 p.m., 12 hours after the hijackers took control of it in Houston.

Hines refused to give newsmen details of what happened aboard the hijacked flight. Instead, he called on Congress and the airline industry to post armed guards at air terminals.

"There is a good possibility this hijack would never have taken place had there been armed guards there," he said.

Reporter is on board of hijacked plane

Editors Note: Dallas News reporter Sam Kinch Jr. boarded a plane in Houston early Sunday morning bound for Washington to cover the vice presidential campaign of Sargent Shriver. Four armed men hijacked the plane to Cuba after killing one airline employee and wounding another.

The Dallas Morning News
HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — For 11½ hours Sunday, I went through the terror of living with a gun at my head and of facing the very real possibility of death. And the possibility of death for 32 fellow passengers and/or all or part of the seven-member crew.

We who caught the 2:45 a.m. flight for Atlanta out of Houston Sunday morning didn't really anticipate this kind of activity. Yet the first thing most of us knew about the flight, which was only supposed to last a little more than an hour, was that a bunch of shots were fired right before we were supposed to take off.

We didn't see any blood. All of the firing was at persons outside of the plane. But we did hear the shots. And we reacted more or less rationally. I dived under the seats, for example.

The next thing we knew was that four men were on board who wanted to take the whole damned plane to Havana.

Three of the men carried automatic pistols, ranging from .38 caliber to German Lugers. One of the men brandished a new-looking automatic shotgun, apparently about a 16-gauge.

The gangsters poked them in our faces, behind our heads and ears, into our ribs and just about everywhere.

The leader was a guy most of us later came to call "Professor Klink" who had a background that he variously described as the military, the field of education and the federal bureaucracy. He is a tall, thin man with clear-rimmed glasses, about 50 years old. A guy given to strong, foul language. And a guy inclined toward violence.

The first time he approached me, he stuck the barrel of a Luger right between my eyes and said, "I don't like your looks worth a damn." The end was near, apparently, until he reached in my shirt pocket and picked out a package of cigarettes and added, "I don't like your brand, either."

The other three skyjackers

Bar group to push for bill on 'no-fault'

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Henry Woods, president of the Arkansas Bar Association, says the group will push for passage in the 1973 legislature of a bill that would require insurance companies to offer no-fault insurance.

Woods said the proposal would not interfere with the individual's right to sue for damages, and he said residents would not be required to purchase it.

Woods said that if a person successfully sued for damages resulting from an automobile accident, he would be required to reimburse his insurance company for any payment he received from it for the accident. He said the provision would help keep insurance rates down.

The association plans to meet with legislators from Nov. 15-Dec. 15 in an effort to gain support for the bill.

Protein varieties are important

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—We enjoy reading your column and have learned very much from it. We are vegetarians and have a two-year-old son. His and our diet consists of goat's milk, nuts, sunflower seeds, two eggs a week, cracked cereals cooked with honey added and put through a blender, fresh vegetables and raw fruit juices and yogurt. We do not eat candy, cake or sweets. We also drink carrot juice two or three times per week. We would like to know if we are receiving enough protein on this diet.

Dear Reader—You may not be getting enough variety of sufficient protein. To maintain good health and good growth for your son, it is necessary not only to get a sufficient amount of protein but a sufficient variety of different proteins to provide all of the eight essential amino acids that the body can't manufacture. The protein sources in your diet come from eggs, yogurt and goat's milk with a small amount of protein from the cereal, particularly if you are using wheat.

You might seriously consider looking for some of the protein powders that are available in the diet section of supermarkets and in some health stores. You can use this powdered material as a food supplement to make sure that you are getting all of the essential amino acids. Read the label carefully because not all of these protein products include a sufficient amount of all of the essential amino acids. So, buy one that specifically says that it has all of the essential amino acids in sufficient quantity for the servings they recommend for daily use.

Another good source of proteins for vegetarians is soybeans. There are even some soybean milk substitute products which are very good. Again you have to be very careful and read the labels, though, because some artificial milk products of this sort have coconut oil added and the only tipoff of this may be the word "vegetable oil." So, if you want to avoid an excessive intake of saturated fats, don't buy a product that says "vegetable oil" without identifying what the oil is. All mature bean seeds make a good vegetable source for protein. Beans alone will not satisfy all of your essential amino acid needs, but will provide more protein than most other vegetables or cereals. It is often a mainstay used by vegetarians in producing a variety of dishes, including a substitute for meat loaf.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I read your article by the mother that indicated her sons were troubled with acne and inquired what she might do.

A year ago you published an article recommending using alcohol. Since I have experienced the same problem, I have been using alcohol saturated in cotton when I return from outdoors and you'd be surprised what soot and dust shows up on the cotton. Then thoroughly wash off the alcohol with a trustworthy soap as you recommend. Now I rarely have skin breakouts, thanks to your suggestion.

Dear Reader—I am always pleased to hear about success. This method does help some people. The alcohol removes excess oils and helps to remove skin bacteria.

Oswald: "Getting back to simple squeezes for a change, how about an example of an automatic squeeze where no one can possibly go wrong."

Jim: "Here's a perfect example. South has a standard no-trump. North looks at his 22 high card points, adds 22 to the 16 minimum for his partner and leaps right to seven no-trump."

Oswald: "Put another spade in either the North or South hand or give one of them the heart or club jack instead of North's spade jack and there would be 13 top tricks. As it is, South can only count on four diamonds, two spades and three each in hearts and clubs."

Jim: "If either hearts or clubs break 3-3 there is a fourth trick available in that suit, but as you can see, neither does break."

Oswald: "This doesn't make any difference to South. He simply plays out his diamonds and spades. It turns out that East holds four cards in both hearts and clubs and he has to throw away his protection in one or the other."

Jim: "The squeeze is called automatic because if West held the long clubs and hearts he would have been squeezed the same way, but if each defender was long in one key suit there would be no squeeze at all and South would pay off."

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

2-CHORD SYSTEM

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1♠	Pass	1♠
Pass	3♠	Pass	3♠
Pass	4♠	Pass	4♠
Pass	5♠	Pass	5♠

You, South, hold:

AKQJ2 ♠ A2 ♠ 5 ♠ AKQJ2

What do you do now?

A-Pass. Why punish your partner for holding a bad hand.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of responding one diamond, your partner responds one heart and bids three hearts over your two spades. What do you do now?

'Month' show may shake TV

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA)—You have to admire that great director, William Wyler. He's been a serious cigarette smoker for 50 years and he just quit, using one of those new commercial methods.

He's so proud of himself that he's turned down a couple of picture offers. He figures the pressure of working on a film would drive him back to the weed so he'd rather not direct than run the risk of smoking again, he says.

There's an experiment going on in TV programming operating companies in the Bell System is marketing it individually, station by station, in the key cities. Angela Tedesco, the company's pretty, young executive in charge, says she expects they'll wind up with a bigger bunch of stations than if they went with a network.

They give the program to the stations free, with only a few provisos. It must be aired in prime time sometime during the first week of each month. And, because of Randall's presence (He does The Odd Couple on ABC) it cannot be aired by NBC and CBS stations opposite Odd Couple, and ABC which could change the whole business. One sponsor has put together a program which does away with the middleman — the networks — and goes directly from the producer to the local stations.

E. J. Peaker

The sponsor is the Long Distance Division of the Bell System. Up until this year they have annually put on a special, via the networks, each spring. They chose that season because it was just before the summer, when traditionally people traveled, and traveling people are what makes for long distance phone calls.

Their research told them that people now are traveling throughout the year, not just in the summer, so they figured they ought to be on TV more often. Rather than a network series or a bunch of network specials, however, they opted for this new gimmick.

The show is called Top of the Month, and it is a variety show built around the theme of each upcoming month, with Tony Randall and E. J. Peaker in charge.

They're distributing it themselves — each of the 23 stations cannot preempt Odd Couple with it.

This seems to be an economical breakthrough for TV. It's good for the individual stations — they get a top quality show free, something that has all the earmarks of being a big special. The sponsor doesn't have to buy network time so he's getting his message across at a greatly reduced cost.

The only one who's suffering is the network and the middleman always gets hurt when he's amputated.

"My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me, and I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish, and no one shall snatch them out of my hand."—John 10:27, 28.

But he who looks into the perfect law, the law of liberty, and perseveres, being no hearer that forgets but a doer that acts, he shall be blessed in his doing.—James 1:25.

Through ages, through eternity, what you have done for God, that, and only that.

WINS AWARD—George Smith, managing editor of the Hope Star, was the recipient of the national Golden Press Award presented recently by the American Legion Auxiliary. The award, presented by Mrs. Fred Formby of Hope, will become an annual presentation to the writer of the best article about youth. Smith won this year's award for an article he wrote while editor of The Baxter Bulletin in Mountain Home on a mentally retarded boy, entitled "Wade: An inside look at the mentally retarded."

Nixon, Kissinger begging for peace, McGovern says

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern says President Nixon and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger "have literally been begging for a settlement" of the Vietnam war. "And I'm glad they have."

McGovern made the comment in Hartford Sunday night in response to a question from a television viewer who expressed concern about the senator's June statement that "begging is better than bombing" to free U.S. prisoners in Vietnam. The Democratic nominee said he stands by that statement, adding: "I submit to you that for the last few weeks Mr. Kissinger and Mr. Nixon have literally been begging for a settlement of this war, and I'm glad they have."

On his fourth visit to Connecticut since the Democratic convention, McGovern planned to attend a brunch for labor and political leaders in New Haven today before returning to Hartford for a rally in Constitution Plaza.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, who nominated McGovern for president at both the 1968 and 1972 Democratic conventions, joined him on Sunday night's telethon, seen in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Afterwards, Ribicoff told reporters McGovern has overcome most of Nixon's earlier leads in the bellwether state of Connecticut.

The Connecticut Democrat also said that, in contrast with his earlier belief that Nixon would be helped by peace developments, he is finding considerable questioning about the timing of the recent moves. McGovern workers and aides report a similar reaction is becoming noticeable in their canvassing.

Eleanor McGovern, the candidate's wife, made comments on several of the telethoned questions, including a statement on Vietnam peace talks that "a cease-fire does not necessarily mean an immediate end to the war."

"That could really go on for several months," she said, prompting her husband to add that "it doesn't mean also that Gen. Thieu is going to cooperate."

As in an appearance earlier Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," McGovern accused Nixon of changing his position on the question of amnesty for draft evaders, declaring "there has been a lot of demagoguery on the part of Mr. Nixon and those who are speaking for him."

People in the News

LONDON (AP) — An American pop music group, the Osmonds, has arrived in Britain for a short tour to a rousing welcome by some 5,000 teenagers.

Many of the British youngsters who greeted the Osmonds at London's Heathrow Airport on Sunday, had slept at the air terminal overnight to catch a glimpse of the Americans.

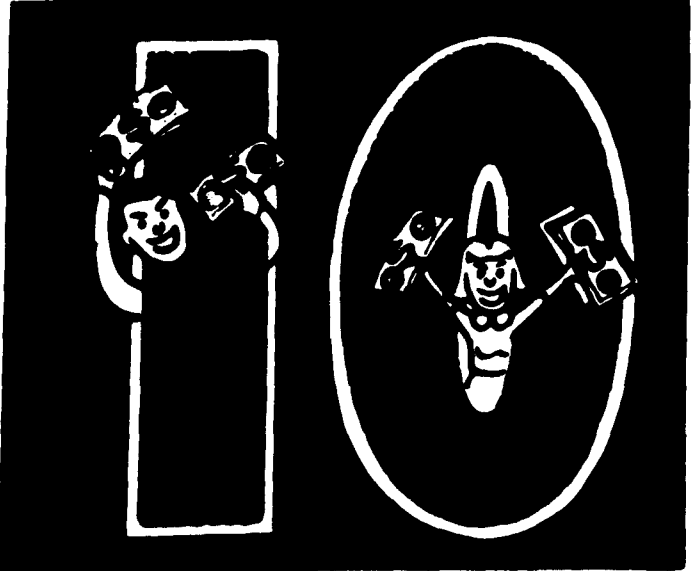

They got a bonus when a second American pop group, the Jackson Five, also arrived for appearances in Britain.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A spokesman for entertainers Sonny and Cher Bono says the couple canceled a Las Vegas engagement three days early because Cher was suffering from a spastic colon.

A spokesman for the Sahara Hotel said Sunday the couple canceled their Sunday night show and had apparently left town.

But a spokesman here said the couple had remained in Las Vegas. The spokesman said Mrs. Bono had suffered the intestinal illness before and that it was not considered serious.

KROGER BIG CUSTOMER
The Kroger Co., one of Arkansas' leading retailers, today released figures which demonstrate that the company also is one of the state's best customers.

Steward W. Long Kroger's Arkansas division vice president, reported that the company's purchases of Arkansas products and services topped $68,130,141 last year.

The major portion of this total—$49,423,870—went to Arkansas farmers and manufacturers for products to be sold in Kroger stores here and in other states, Long said.

Secret poll findings termed 'bunk'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's campaign strategists have reported receiving encouraging secret public-opinion polls leaked by a Republican defector inside President Nixon's political organization.

While a McGovern campaign aide said a private GOP poll showed the Democratic nominee gaining substantial ground, a spokesman for the Committee for the Re-election of the President termed it "bunk."

Albert E. Abraham, spokesman for the Nixon campaign committee, said there was no such poll.

The McGovern aide, who asked that his name not be used, said the polling figures covered 33 states and showed the Democratic challenger pulling within 13 points of the President, a margin considerably less than that reported by national pollsters.

Abraham said the Nixon administration had never conducted a poll of 33 states. He declined to give precise figures on GOP soundings, but said opinion polls in the 10 biggest states showed Nixon ahead of McGovern by margins ranging from 14 to 36 points.

The McGovern aide said he does not know which states were missing from the poll the Democratic camp obtained, and knows nothing about the sampling of voters it represents.

He said it was a GOP survey conducted between Oct. 18 and Oct. 22, and showed Nixon ahead of McGovern 51 per cent to 39 per cent.

An Oct. 25 Gallup poll rated

Nixon at 50 per cent, McGovern at 38.

McGovern's man said the poll was obtained from someone working in the so-called November Group, the firm set up to handle Nixon's campaign advertising and television.

He said the source of the data was a Republican worker who became disenchanted because of the break-in at Democratic national headquarters and other alleged political espionage and sabotage, and decided to relay information to the McGovern camp.

"This is a man who volunteered, he was not recruited," the McGovern aide said. He said he does not know the identity of the informant, and could not reveal it if he did, but described the source as a volunteer and not a spy or a Democratic plant.

According to the McGovern aide, the polls showed McGovern leading Nixon by two percentage points in California. A source in the Nixon organization said its private poll actually showed the President ahead by 14 points in that pivotal state.

The McGovern aide said the polls showed Nixon ahead by seven points in New York and New Jersey and by nine points in Michigan.

He said those figures were roughly in line with the findings of McGovern's own pollster Patrick Caddell.
